One bad feature of the fire was the necessity of our getting up at 3:30 a. m.

The thunder and lightning Wednesday gave Winter's backbone a slight jar.

And only a few months ago the Taft boom was said to be dead.

The Kansas City papers keep a column reserved every day for accounts of criminal assaults.

And now it is rumored that Champ Clark will enter the senatorial race. Well, the more the merrier.

The Kaw river, it is announced, is to be widened. This does not refer to the annual temporary widening in May and June.

By the way, what has become of Johnson, Gray and a few other Democrats? Has the peerless Nebraskan cleaned out the whole crowd?

The Kansas City Times in its account of the Britt-Nelson fight gives the benefit of all the doubtful points to the Dane, which shows that there is really something in a name.

The attack on Chief Shippy of Chicago turned out the best way possible. It brought glory to the chief, his son, his wife, his daughter and his driver, and death to the dastardly assassin.

On nice, warm, luxurious spring days like these one is tempted to lean back in his chair, put his feet on his desk, light a cigar, close his eyes and meditate on what might have been and what ought to be.

There is some trouble in Russia because an admiral gave away some naval secrets. This is the first time for two years that it has been intimated that Russian naval secrets could be disposed of if not given away.

At last the meaning of "fall guy" has been discovered. It is synonymous with "easy mark." It is a well authenticated expression now and appears regularly in the sporting columns of the New York and Chicago papers.

There has just been a terrible fracas at the state university, because a young lady refused to take a cold bath after playing basketball. It must be a tame game they play at Columbia if a girl has to receive orders about such a thing.

The local branch of the Lafayette Telephone company acquitted itself well during and after the fire. Miss Susie Brawner, who had charge of the board, called up every business man whose property was endangered and notified him of the situation. After the fire many wires and cables were down. The company at considerable expense employed experts from Kansas City and fixed the damage so soon that the inconvenience was scarcely noticed.

A FEW FIGURES.

All statistics show that the counties in Missouri which have county school supervision surpass in all educational features those without supervision.

In the 94 non-supervision counties there is a total enumeration of 667,166 and a total enrollment of 423,833, making the per cent of enrollment on enumeration 61 per cent. In the 20 supervision counties the total enumeration is 156,531 and the total enrollment 112,159, making the per cent of enrollment on enumeration 72 per cent.

In the non-supervision counties the average daily attendance is 61 per cent of the enrollment, while in the supervision counties it is 70 per cent.

The average length of the school term is 120 days in non-supervision counties against 146 in supervision counties.

The average annual salary of teachers in non-supervision counties is $254.07, while in the sup-

The most obstinate and advanced cough is readily relieved by PISO'S CURE. No other remedy has such a soothing and healing effect upon the throat and lungs. For nearly half a century it has cured innumerable cases of coughs and colds and saved many lives. For throat and lung affections

Last year there averaged 28 graduates from each of the non-supervision counties and 71 from each of the supervision counties.

All of which indicates that Lafayette county would be better off with county supervision.

Reducing the Cost of Living.

It is cheering to know that the country is not solidly going to the dogs. George Kennan, the Siberian traveler, has discovered in Indiana an institution which is unique and inspiring. It began with one man, as a small school, and is now a flourishing university, and supplies to its students furnished room, board, and higher education for thirty-eight cents a day. Mr. Kennan says:

"When, a few months ago, I described the work and achievements of this university to a Wall Street banker, and told him that it gave board, room, and instruction to a student for one hundred and twenty dollars a year, he asked, with quick interest, 'How do they manage it? Have they got a big endowment?'"

"No," I replied; "they have never had a gift of money from any source."

"Well, then," he said with conviction, "its brains!"—and to "brains" the success of the management is unquestionably due."

Mr. Kennan gives minute details of the management which makes it possible to give students a hearty meal for four cents.

Call for Constitutional Amendment Conference.

At a meeting of the Ministerial Alliance of Sedalia, Mo. held in that city, Monday, Feb. 3rd at which members of various temperance organizations were present, it was voted to call a mass conference of the temperance forces of the state to be held at Sedalia Tuesday and Wednesday, March 17th and 18th, 1908, the first session to convene at ten o'clock Tuesday the 17th. In pursuance of the action taken at that time members of all temperance and church organizations are hereby invited to attend said conference that ways may be devised for a fuller federation of the temperance forces of the state, a united effort may be put forth, and the submission of a Prohibition Constitutional amendment brought about at the next session of the state legislature.

This will be a mass meeting, and all persons in sympathy with the objects of this conference will be granted seats and allowed all the privileges of delegates.

Signed,

J. M. Rudy, Pastor, First Christian Church.

Clark Baker, Pastor, East Sedalia, Methodist Episcopal Church.

James Parsons, Pastor, Congregational Church, Committee in Charge.

The Preacher's Duty.

It is entirely proper for the preacher and others to urge people to attend church. The Gospel invitation must be voiced in every possible way and enforced by every legitimate argument. Even when the preaching is below the best standards people ought to be at the house of God for the benefit of worship, and for even a small amount of good they may derive from the sermon. But when this is said not all has been said. When a hundred or five hundred people put on their best clothes and best manners and take their seats in the pews, they mean business. They are fulfilling an engagement. Thus far they are carrying out their part of a contract. The man in the pulpit ought to have felt all week, and ought to feel now, how much he owes these men and women. They have given their minds, and hearts to him for a half hour, with a favorable disposition to all that he may say. He has no right to defraud them by giving them chaff or wind or the beautiful products of his imagination. It is a time for religious truth. It is his supreme opportunity to do them the highest good. He must not pay them in punched coins or feed them on mouldy food. As between man and man they are entitled to his best. If he treats them well it is more than likely they will come again, and if he treats them specially well they will feel bold enough to bring some one with them next time. The preacher who does not feel this all the week while he is preparing his sermons is in danger of having to mourn over empty pews and small prayer meetings.—The Central Baptist.
